To whom it may concern,

I very much enjoyed Darren Murphy's "Creative Thinking Workshop" and feel as though I received valuable information that I am applying to my personal and professional life. Darren's presentation skills made the morning fun and interesting and the time really flew by.

I have taken to heart some of the barriers to creative thinking that Darren mentioned: failure to set aside time, electronic devices, boredom. And the intrinsic motivators: passion and purpose. In terms of specific exercises that I have tried, my husband and I created a divergence and convergence diamond when we were brainstorming activities for the upcoming summer with travel and local activities. It was helpful.

I feel fortunate that I was able to experience this workshop and would highly recommend Darren as a speaker in any venue. He does thorough preparation and plans his time and activities meticulously so that he is free to enjoy the interaction and responses of participants.

Sincerely,

Mary Donnelly, RN, MSN
